Massachusetts' immigrant community is full of courageous individuals who have fled trauma and persecution with the vision of a fresh start. However, the resources required to navigate complex U.S. immigration law and secure asylum are expensive and hard to access. Free legal representation can mean the difference between a positive future and a return to danger.

Since 1989, PAIR (Political Asylum/Immigration Representation) Project has provided legal services to over 17,000 clients in their search for justice, hope, and safety. PAIR's clients live below 125% of the Federal Poverty Level, 98% of them are people of color, and are representatives of over 90 countries.

Investment Opportunity

PAIR seeks an investment of $1,200,000 over the next three years to bolster its critical community engagement work and legal staff and increase its pro bono attorney team, due to anticipated cuts in funding, both in federal and foundation sources. PAIR will use the investment to sustain its staffing, expand its high quality legal services and community education portfolio to help families prepare for interactions with ICE, and develop new ways to support clients with long term stability and family reunification.

- Each year, PAIR recruits, trains, and mentors a network of over 1,500 pro bono lawyers to support over 1,700 clients.
- Asylum seekers with legal representation are four times more likely to win their case. In 2025, only 38% of total asylum cases filed with the Boston Asylum Office were approved; PAIR's success rate has stayed at 95% for over 10 years.
- While PAIR aims to serve as many immigrant clients in need, according to a Boston Bar Association study, legal service organizations turn away 50% of the eligible clients they meet due to lack of staff, tremendous backlog, and limited financial resources.

Two-Year Goals

- Hire legal staff, including attorneys, with specializations in asylum law and other forms of humanitarian relief
- Grow network of volunteer attorneys by 150 new attorneys a year
- Expand community education efforts through "Know Your Rights" presentations across Massachusetts and access to PAIR
- Sustain recent growth (staff, program, volunteers, revenue) while maintaining high quality legal services

Because of you, I can write poems of freedom. I can believe in a future. An asylee is someone who can be born twice, like me; all thanks to you.

PAIR'S MODEL

OUR WORK

PAIR envisions a world where all asylum seekers have a right to legal counsel and can find justice, hope, and safety for themselves and their families in the U.S.

Unmet legal needs are the primary reasons asylum seekers are denied protection in the U.S. However, our immigration system is too opaque, expensive, and intimidating for the increasing number of vulnerable immigrants. There is no legal right to free counsel for immigration proceedings. PAIR partners with 1,500 active volunteer attorneys from over 50 of Boston's major law firms. PAIR recruits, trains, and mentors these corporate attorneys, most of whom do not have expertise in immigration law. These volunteers help PAIR maximize scarce internal legal resources while serving a substantial client base. In FY 23-24, PAIR's network of pro bono lawyers provided over 23,000 hours of donated legal services, worth a total of $17M of in-kind donations.

Pro Bono Asylum Program: PAIR serves asylum seekers who have overcome unspeakable horrors to forge new lives in safety and freedom. PAIR's asylum program has assisted thousands of immigrants and has an astonishing success rate of over 95%.

Detention Program: PAIR is the only nonprofit in Massachusetts with negotiated access to provide legal orientation to immigrants detained by ICE. Detained immigrants are one of the most underserved populations, hidden from view with no right to free legal counsel. Detained immigrants are twice as likely to win relief with representation, making access to counsel vital.

Justice for Immigrant Families Program: Serves women and children fleeing persecution and violence and crossing through the U.S. southwest border, particularly individuals from Central America. Most of the clients in this program have suffered severe trauma and face language barriers.

Community Outreach: PAIR partners with fellow nonprofits, schools, and healthcare providers to bring "Know Your Rights" presentations to the public, including the immigrant community and greater Boston social service organizations. These presentations empower immigrants to understand and use their constitutional rights. Since December 2016, PAIR has reached over 21,000 community members.

The diversity of our country is one of its greatest strengths. As lawyers, we have a unique ability to help individuals from other countries, who, often at great risk and sacrifice, make the commitment to live in the United States. PAIR provides the opportunity for us to provide that help.

A HOLISTIC APPROACH TO JUSTICE, HOPE, AND SAFETY

Asylees face uncertain futures, even after obtaining their status. Lack of access to housing, transportation, employment, education, healthcare, and childcare are significant barriers to ensuring a fresh start in the U.S. PAIR’s holistic and empowering approach ensures that all clients have access to the services needed to support their next journey.

Health and Well-Being in High Quality Legal Services: PAIR’s clients come to the U.S. having fled persecution and trauma. They lack basic resources, support systems, and access to the justice system. PAIR’s holistic approach recognizes that clients need more than just asylum to ensure their health and well-being. PAIR partners with local health centers to provide counseling services and medical care for all family members.

Uniting Families: Once they have been granted asylum, asylees can apply for derivative asylum for their spouse and children. This process allows families to leave dangerous places and reunite with their loved ones in the U.S. PAIR works with families to provide reunification support, including housing, transportation, and school enrollment.

Path to Citizenship: Research shows that a significant number of individuals who receive asylum become naturalized as U.S. citizens. PAIR urges clients to pursue citizenship as the ultimate security in creating a safe and healthy future. PAIR provides referrals to local agencies that offer pro bono support for clients with the citizenship process.

FINANCIAL SUSTAINABILITY

As a result of sudden and harsh changes to immigration law and policy, as well as a surge in client needs, PAIR has seen tremendous growth in the last several years. In 2021, PAIR completed its most recent strategic plan, which charted an ambitious course for its future and the organization is on its way to achieving it.

Revenue by Source

Success Story: Octavio

Octavio fled Honduras because he was repeatedly harassed and physically assaulted due to his sexual orientation and his courageous work as a gay rights activist. He had formed a nonprofit dedicated to documenting information related to rights abuses within the gay community, such as police cruelty, maltreatment, and exploitation. Despite the risk, Octavio worked to protect the rights of the LGBT community. As a result, the police threatened physical harm if he didn't stop his activism. Scared for his life, Octavio came to the U.S. PAIR matched Octavio with volunteer attorney Orlando Lopez from Burns & Levinson. He won asylum in the U.S. and continues to advocate for LGBT rights. Octavio is now a U.S. citizen, a successful entrepreneur, member of the PAIR Board, and generous PAIR volunteer.

CHALLENGES TO PAIR'S WORK & COMMITMENT TO JUSTICE

We are experiencing a seismic shift in immigration law and policy in the U.S. Immigrant communities across the country are experiencing an assault on their legal rights and security, such as the attempt to ban refugees at U.S. borders, termination of humanitarian parole, stripping of asylum protections, and increased arrest and detention by ICE. The draconian changes have left immigrants in the U.S. in shock and despair, especially those detained by U.S. immigration officials.

It is critical to protect asylum seekers in the U.S., who are survivors of unimaginable torture and who often encounter seemingly insurmountable barriers to protection. PAIR is committed to filling a crucial gap in civil legal aid for immigrants and asylum seekers across Massachusetts, ensuring access to justice. Despite the extremely low asylum grant rate locally, PAIR's success rate with its asylum cases has stayed at 95% for over 15 years. In FY24, PAIR had the honor of helping 97 clients win their immigration case and are now helping them with family reunification and their legal permanent residency process. With PAIR's help, these clients now have hope to rebuild their lives in the U.S. and reunite with family left behind in their home countries.
